

TRUMP PENCE Team – Week 12 Update

President Trump promised that he would put in place common sense reforms to eliminate waste so that the government better serves all Americans.

There is duplication and redundancy everywhere. Billions and billions of dollars are being wasted on activities that are not delivering results for hardworking American taxpayers.

We must make our government leaner and more accountable. We must do a lot more with less.

President Trump will ensure that huge savings will be accomplished through common sense reforms that eliminate government waste and end budget gimmicks.

Learn more about the President's week below.

Swearing In A Strong Defender Of The Constitution

Justice Neil Gorsuch, President Trump's pick to fill the vacant seat on the United States Supreme Court, was formally sworn in on Monday. Justice Gorsuch is a man of unquestioned integrity and deep faith in the Constitution of the United States. It is critical to have a strong defender of the Constitution like Justice Gorsuch sitting on the United States Supreme Court.

Honoring The Men And Women Who Serve Our Nation

The White House hosted the Wounded Warriors Project Soldier Ride to pay tribute to the men and women who have fought for and protected our country. President Trump delivered remarks to honor the brave men and women who have served this nation at an event in the East Room of the White House.

Working With Business Leaders To Grow The Economy

President Trump gathered with a group of world-class business leaders this week at the White House to discuss the creation of great, high-paying jobs for American workers. Since the President took office, over 600,000 jobs already been created. This week, Toyota announced that it will invest more than $1.3 billion into its Georgetown, Kentucky plant that will result many more jobs in the future.

Working With NATO To Focus On The Challenges Of The Future

President Trump welcomed NATO Secretary General Stoltenberg to the White House this week. NATO allies defeated communism and liberated captive nations during the Cold War. They have secured the longest period of unbroken peace that Europe has ever known. This enduring partnership is rooted in many different things, but our nations' security is the priority, as is our common devotion to human dignity and freedom. In the coming months and years, President Trump will work closely with all of our NATO allies to enhance this partnership and to adapt to the challenges of the future. This includes upgrading NATO to focus on today's most pressing security issues including migration and terrorism.

For too long, we've punished production in America and rewarded companies for leaving our country — it's time to reverse that.

President Trump has already taken historic action to unleash job creation, signing dozens of bills and executive actions to reduce federal overreach and expand domestic production.

The President is also simultaneously working to modernize our economy and harness the full potential of women in the workforce. Economic confidence is sweeping the nation.
